

Cybersecurity Program Leadership (CISO)

The risks associated with inadequate cybersecurity infrastructure can no longer be ignored, as the number of detected incidents and data losses are increasing exponentially every year. Companies have a fiduciary responsibility to their customers, shareholders and employees to develop a cybersecurity posture that prevents an attack and mitigates its impact if one does occur.

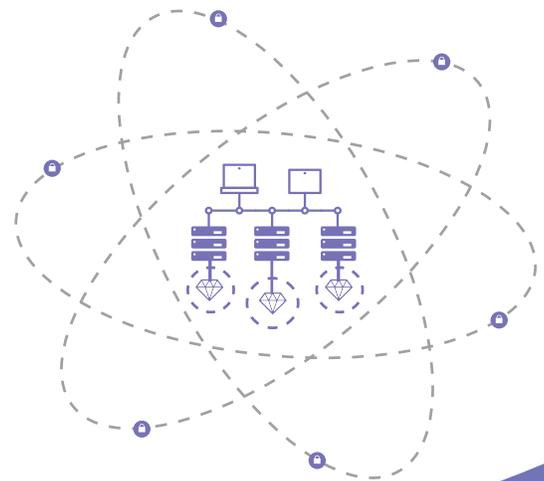

Not every organization has a Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) in place to manage a robust cybersecurity program. If your organization is lacking a dedicated CISO, Cimphoni offers a variety of options to fulfill this vital role for your organization. Our experienced leaders can come into your organization on a temporary basis as an Interim Chief Information Security Officer (CISO), a virtual/part-time CISO or a CISO Coach, to align with your needs.

There are two types of companies – those that have been hacked and those that don't yet know they have been hacked. What steps is your organization taking to secure your most valuable data assets?

The benefits of bringing a Cimphoni expert in to lead your cybersecurity programs are:

- Cimphoni consultants will assess your threat landscape and trends as well as your current security posture/risk levels.
- We will build out a specific roadmap to lower your organization's risk to an acceptable level that is aligned with your business strategy and technology strategy.
- Cimphoni experts have the experience and skills to take your organization through the transformative process to achieve compliance or certification.

Interim CISO

In many organizations, there may not be a Chief Information Security Office (CISO) or the CISO role is a secondary role for someone with a different “day job.” There is no cybersecurity strategy, there is little alignment with business activities, and cybersecurity tasks are performed by different parts of the IT organization as secondary functions or as byproducts of other IT processes. In this situation, an experienced interim CISO may be the best choice to take your organization through the required transformative process.

Virtual CISO

Some companies may not have the need or budget for a full-time CISO, yet need a seasoned leader for their security strategy and implementation. One solution is a virtual CISO who performs similar duties for several companies on a part-time basis. The virtual CISO brings the knowledge and experience of a seasoned CISO at a lower cost, while also ensuring that a dedicated resource is focused on your cybersecurity program. Let us assess if a virtual CISO makes operational and financial sense for your organization.

CISO Coach

If your CISO is new in the role or unfamiliar with certain aspects of the role (ex: PCI compliance), our experienced cybersecurity executives will help your CISO effectively transition into the role. The Cimphoni executive may work side-by-side with your CISO to provide feedback and guide the CISO for a number of ongoing security projects. The benefit to your organization is getting your CISO effective in the role within minimal time and without learning lessons “the hard way.”
